The background of the slide features a large, stylized graphic of a diamond or rhombus shape, composed of several overlapping teal-colored triangles. A network of thin white lines crisscrosses the entire slide, creating a geometric pattern. The word "atla" is written in a white, lowercase, sans-serif font, positioned within one of the teal triangular sections in the lower half of the slide.

What is the Atla Digital Library?

- Hub of religion & theology resources
- Discovery & access
- Aggregator of metadata

Why the Atla Digital library?

Benefit to scholars, educators and learners

- One website to access hundreds of libraries, archives and collections

Benefit to contributing institutions

- Circulation to a broader audience
- Increased visibility of unique collections
- Metadata review and refinement

Why the Atla Digital library?

Atla Digital Library Program supports the principles of:

- Open access to and free use/re-use of metadata
- Free online access to digital content
- Collaboration and collectively developing and maintaining best practices among program participants

What's in the Atla Digital Library?

46 contributing institutions

179 collections

108,305 works

How does it work?

Use Case: Metadata Aggregator

Atla's goal for aggregation: to make external collections/works discoverable through the Atla DL

- Harvest metadata from contributor collections and display those within Atla's Hyrax application
- Customize the display of those pages to be visually consistent with the Atla Digital Library
- Link out to the original work on the external host site

Harvester Tool Requirements

- User-friendly way to import OAI-PMH metadata records into the system as works and collections, with thumbnail
- Ability to run importer on an ongoing basis to capture new records from the remote source
- Synchronization algorithms to push new metadata edits of existing items
- Allow the addition of a standardized rights statement to be applied on import when needed

The Plan

- Create an initial harvest of Princeton Theological Seminary Theological Commons collection
- Use scripts from Princeton harvest as base work for building a Harvester Tool in the Admin for future aggregation
- Build on OAI-PMH/DC initial setup to accommodate additional data types (for Internet Archives, Omeka, etc.)

The Result: BulkraX

- Now supports OAI-PMH, CSV, Bagit, and XML
- Allows metadata record imports by collection with a thumbnail image and a link out to the full work online
- Supports scheduling of imports, allows limits on number of records, and rules around harvesting specific sets

The Result: BulkraX

Easy to use interface with which you are able to create, edit, delete, run, and re-run imports

The screenshot shows the BulkraX interface for the atla Digital Library. At the top is a dark navigation bar with the atla logo, links for Home, Explore, About, and Participate, a notification bell, and a user profile for rob@notch8.com. Below this is a light gray header area with a 'New' button. The main content is a table with columns for Name, Status, Last Run, Next Run, Entries Enqueued, Entries Processed, Entries Failed, Entries Deleted Upstream, Total Collection Entries, and Total Work Entries. Three collections are listed: PTSL - Ashbel Green Simonton Manuscript Collection (Processing), Garrett - The Methodist Manuscripts Collection (Processing), and Garrett - Arthur Landwehr Sermon Collection (Failed). Each row has action icons for info, edit, and delete.

Name	Status	Last Run	Next Run	Entries Enqueued	Entries Processed	Entries Failed	Entries Deleted Upstream	Total Collection Entries	Total Work Entries
PTSL - Ashbel Green Simonton Manuscript Collection	Processing	Aug 27, 2019		1	13873	0	0	0	1

Continuing the Work

CLIR Grant for Philadelphia Congregations Early Records Project

- 40,000+ records
- Expanded harvester to have UV settings using remote IIIF urls
- Added conditional display logic so that CLIR records display correctly in UV without interfering with existing display of data
- UV adapted to display both remote and local manifests

Continuing the Work

CDRI

- Older external database that required maintenance
- Remapped the metadata to match Atla schema and reimported

Internet Archive

- Customized to import Internet Archive collections using OAI-PMP for Dublin Core
- Used IA's IIIF manifests to display in UV

American Mission in Egypt, 1854-1954

American Mission in Egypt, 1854-1954: A collection of glass lantern slides created to celebrate the Centennial of the Presbyterian mission in Egypt, showing rare photos of some of the people and places connected with AME history. Each slide is identified by a title and usually a date, handwritten on the paper edge of the slide or on a list found with them.

Description
In 1864, a Punjabi prince, the Maharajah Dulip Singh (son of Runjit Singh) visited Egypt. He was a Protestant convert and became acquainted with the AME staff, serving as a benefactor to the Mission. He requested the help of John Hogg and Sarah Dales to find him a pious Christian wife, and they recommended to him a young student in the School for Girls named Bamba. They were married in June 1864. See Elder, pp. 37-41, and Sharkey, pp. 36-37.
