Hydra Labs

Carolyn Cole

What is Hydra-Labs

Hydra Experiments, Works-in-progress, and Beta versions of gems and apps. It is suitable for production use, but awaiting broader adoption.

Hydra Project Structure

projecthydra

projecthydra-labs

projecthydra-depricated

Should we have a projecthydra-addons?

Requirements for creating a project

The projecthydra-labs repository is meant to be a true lab, and experimentation is to be encouraged as much as possible

The committers may accept any any contributions to projecthydra-labs by any Hydra Licensed Contributors wishing to offer their work

Promotion Process

Projects within projecthydra-labs can and should be promoted to projecthydra when they meet the documented criteria: <http://projecthydra-labs.github.io/promotion.html>

Who does this?

How do we document issues/ todos for promotion?

Are the criteria correct?

Questioning Authority

1. ~~Needs coveralls to run test coverage~~
2. ~~Add possible dependency on LC data services~~
3. ~~Remove authors~~
4. ~~State how to get help --> don~~
5. ~~Move specific vocab help (not used) to experimental section~~
6. Complete to-do

Browse Everything

Exercise:

Compare against criteria. Can it be promoted?

Notes from the Session

- Possibly the comitters is an avenue for the promotion process
 - Recommend any coding todo's to be documented as issues
 - Is a tutorial really needed for every gem. Should we really look to see if the documentation is complete.\ul> - If it has adequate documentation that may include a tutorial.
- Can we use github to create a listing of easy tickets for others to use as a gateway into community involvement
- In active use for 6 month - WHY!?!
- Hierarchy of promises asserted in clearly defined acceptance test - What does this mean?
- Are there required items for promotion from the guidelines?

Any issues that are found for promotion should documented in github as issues with the milestone "project hydra promotion"

We went through browse everything and created 2 tickets. and put the milestone on 1 ticket so browse everything only has 3 tickets (possibly 2) to close before being promoted.
